Dear Players:

The 2022 football season is complete, and we have much to be thankful as we celebrate our season and send off an awesome group of seniors. We all learned that football is a game where many lessons are tested daily, and progress can be measured weekly by the efforts on and off the field. Many aspects of the game of football go against the grain of many boys, that's why only a few can do this. Let's look at a championship mindset. These values can always be improved, and they will apply to most all you do in the future.

First and foremost a strong work ethic is required to realize progress. Many players on this team made the decision to constantly strive to be their best and in doing so made others around them better. To have the courage and desire to play on Friday night with the mindset to "empty the tank" showed leadership and desire that few youth today are willing to commit. I am proud of those who embraced this and displayed it on Friday nights.

As our season progressed, we all quickly learned that our teammates are our greatest asset. Being a great teammate is putting the team's success before our own. Lining up and battling side by side play after play is hard but doing it with a great teammate who has the same mindset is something few get to experience. This unselfish mindset is what makes good teams great and helps develop a strong unbreakable bond.

Football is a very competitive sport and players must embrace competition. This isn't in everyone's DNA and this is why only a select few have the capacity to survive in this sport. Friday night football is special but its also very competitive and demanding. We learned that a champion will always look to the next play and keep pressing forward. We evaluate and learn from mistakes, but a champion is able to put the negative in a box and not dwell on it and focus their energy forward.

Football and accountability go hand in hand. We learned to be accountable to our teammates, its rules, the coaches, grades, behavior, and the school district is a huge ask. Its always easy to blame or pass judgement towards others but that is a loser's mindset. Fully taking accountability for yourself and your actions will always make you a better player and person. We had many players show growth in this area through out the season and I am proud of those.

Be known for a strong discipline is demanded of everyone to be great football player and a great football team. Being in control in the heat of battle allows one to keep focused and able to execute and ultimately win. Being disciplined is working hard when the coach isn't looking and doing what is right when tempted. Having a strong discipline will allow you to be successful in life.

My hope is that all players had growth in all these areas. Winning is important but understanding what it takes and how to win is more important. Every Penn Manor football player has a champion inside. Our players returning next year have opportunity to grow and this excites me. To our seniors who will be graduating you have an opportunity to be a champion in the next phase of your life. Use these values you learned in your football career to continue to feed the champion inside each of you.
