Led by EIRA and High School All-American Coaches – Salty Thompson, Brendan Keane, and Sean O’Leary

EIRA is a nonprofit organization with a mission to find and develop the best young rugby prospects in the country.

EIRA started in 2013 with the goal to improve core skills and make American rugby athletes better.

Over 90% of our graduates continue to play rugby at the college and club levels.

EIRA training has helped players and teams succeed in reaching their rugby and life goals.

EIRA is not intended to train the beginning player. Players should be able to perform basic rugby skills at an above average level.
